“In the process of trying to protect victims and battle family violence, has the domestic violence movement been guilty of minimizing the role of men and fathers in society and in families?”

“First Step prides itself as ‘out-of-the-box thinkers’ in the field of family violence. First Step’s program service delivery is innovative, progressive and effective. The staff will provide an overview of their program services, mission and vision, followed by a discussion of challenges, obstacles and resistance to change in the domestic violence field.”

“We invite you to come and listen to First Step’s story. There will be time for questions/answers and dialog.”

Terri Mercer, Executive Director
